Chapter - 17: The Three Kinds of Faith

"Once there lived a great Guru in a village with his wife and disciples. The Guru had tremendous faith in his disciples that he taught everything he knew. One of his disciples after gaining complete knowledge from the Guru went to the King and challenged his own Guru, saying that he is the most knowledgeable person in the whole kingdom. And hearing this, the King, all his pupils in the kingdom including the Guru were disappointed looking at the disciple's gesture. But the King had no choice but to conduct this challenge and announce a winner. Yet everyone was in a dilemma because if the disciple won the challenge, it would send the wrong signal to future disciples. The Guru had the same thought and didn't mind losing to the disciple to whom he taught all the knowledge. Finally, the Guru wins the challenge and the disciple is humbled by the teacher".
